Brief History

In 1872, St. John Bosco, Founder of the Salesian Society with the cooperation of St. Mary Domenica Mazzarello and having obtained the approval of Pope Pio IX, established the Institute of Daughters of Mary Help of Christians (also known as Salesian Sisters), an institute for the service and education of young girls.

In 1923, the first group of Salesian missionary sisters arrived at Ho Sai, China from Italy. In 1925, the Sisters in order to render service to the people opened a hostel for blind girls and a nursery in Shiu Chow. In 1933, the Sisters went from Shiu Chow to Shanghai to start their missionary work, opened a clinic, nursery and primary school. In 1945, the Sisters came to Macau from Shiu Chow to start their mission there.

In 1950, the foreign missionaries left China for Hong Kong, and found small stone house in Diamond Hill, Kowloon, and that was the start of the work of the Salesian Sisters in Hong Kong.

In 1953, the Hong Kong Government began demolishing the huts in the Diamond Hill area, therefore, the Sisters move from Diamond Hill to Chuk Yuen, Wong Tai Sin. They bought a small house and began Kindergarten and primary school, naming it Our Lady's School.

In order to expand Our Lady's School, the Sisters applied for a loan from the government in 1969 and built a school on Shatin Pass Road; the new school was renamed Our Lady's College which included three sections: high school, primary school and kindergarten.
